

Protect Yourself Online in Your Everyday Life

In today's digital world, we rely on internet-connected devices for everything from social media to online shopping. While these conveniences make life easier, they also create opportunities for cybercriminals. By taking a few simple precautions, you can keep your personal information safe.

Social Media Safety

- Set your social media profiles to private and only connect with people you know and trust.
- Be mindful of what you share online—once posted, information can easily spread beyond your control.
- Avoid participating in social media trends that ask for personal details (such as your first pet's name or birth year), as cybercriminals can use this information to guess passwords or security answers.

Online Shopping Safety

- Stick to trusted, well-known retailers when making online purchases.
- Use a credit or debit card for transactions—never send cash or wire money.
- Be cautious of deals that seem too good to be true—they often are.

Smart Device Safety

- Smart speakers and some smartphones have an "always listening" setting. Consider turning it off or muting the microphone when discussing sensitive information.
 - Regularly review and clear your device's activity history to monitor for anything unusual.
 - Keep all software and security updates current to protect against vulnerabilities.

safeguard your personal data.
